Turkey Vultures

Turkey - in road, crouched on pavement as we surprised it in the car. It stayed right in open, permitting us to take picture from window, with car engine running, and it hissed, growled, and gurgled at us the whole time. I got out, went around to "free it", bent to pick it up and it jumped up, ran away, circled back across the road and into the woods 30 or 40 feet before doing the same squat escape action!

No eye ring apparent. Yellow bill. Much blue gray shows on flanks from back. 9-10 syllable calls. White tail edge from back. Female in cottonwood below Sawmill Camp. 4/10 mile. Deep wagging of tail, with under rump pink showing from the back. Dull brown body. F w/ yellow bill. Poor eye-ring and faint under tail. Male moved high up canyon wall. Dear Gale:

You had the fresh report of our wonderful weekend of Arizona birding on the telephone a couple of weeks ago, and I've just now re-written by typewriter all the fond memories. The trips with you and with Murray were great!

I ended up with 196 species for the trip, plus three unknowns which we'll get into in a minute or two.

Five life-listers brings my total to 1316

Ten North American listers bring that total to 637 (where I was before lopping eleven earlier listers off because of re-do of the AOU checklist!

Twenty-seven Arizona listers, bringing my state total to 288. Not too bad for a foreigner, but a long way from you totals, I'm sure!

The trogons were more than cooperative, but we had to chase a turkey out of the road so we could get to the trogons! Was especially amazed at the height of the tail-flipping of the female! Much more than seen done by Trinidad species. Saw male just into Garden canyon beyond picnic grounds (Murray has the distance) and then a pair below Sawmill camp-picnic ground.

Buff-breasted Flycatchers at Sawmill seen only in pure yellowpine stands, parklike-with little or no brush below. She "knew their call", but the notes we heard from them were different ones altogether. She can fill you on that, and on their steady habit of alighting at the top base of limbs right up against the tree trunks, with wings and tail often quivering. This is fairly well detailed in Bent's LH's, but was a new habit for flycatchers to me!

The flammulated owl came to calls and right into your lantern light, like the Whiskered for you and me, but actually more easily. On road to the dam above the rsch. sta a few miles. I hope you get the lantern back in time for Mexico. And how was that trip??!

The next morning I'd swear on a stack of bibles I heard a Nutcracker calling high on the cliffs to the NW of the jct. of the two roads at Cave Creek. No see-um, tho. Turns out the Mexican Jay student said flocks wintered at Spoffords, too.

Forgot to tell you, John Gottschalk and others got to see a female Rose-breasted Grosbeak at Mile Hi, where he stayed overnight. Peabody's had rumor of a yellow (trying to outdo Monson) wagtail along stream below their place. They had not see, and Murray and I could not find.

The last morning, May 12 was unbelievable at Patagonia. Swallows nesting in the newly constructed part of the Stage Stop motel, and we had hardly got to the sycamore tree across from the rest stop and there was a female becard hi in the tree, and in a few more minutes, after chasing the tanager species out of the way, I had short glimpses of the thick-billed KB. Still questionable, but later verified at 11 a.m. beyond a doubt when one landed near us at the Patagonia end of the preserve, several miles from the sycamore tree. There is no way to confuse it with any other KB, even the eastern, and the call notes it gave for us are unique.

I climbed the rocky, prickly slope and had dandy looks at the 5-striped sparrow, too, but three puzzlers that morning are worth your turning over this page to get the details.! Before leaving the rest stop we met two your birders, Doug Stotz and Chuck Kangas. ?sp?? Kangas had just returned from a Guy McCaskie trip to San Diego. Avid birder, but how capable?? Couldn't even remember the common names of some of the species seen on the SD trip! Anyway, we alerted those two to watch for the mystery birds. Any word passed out from that yet? So - do turn the page and let me have the benefit of your highly skiller, unerring, technical analysis!::::

Here they are:

1. Before climbing the rocky south slope for the Five-striped sparrow (which we had hoped to locate without climbing, this bird drew me uphill like a magnet. We both heard it watched it with binocs from the road below the slope.
Trim, 6" bird. 100' away on ocotillo on dry, sparse south slope hill,
Perched erect, repeating 3-syllables - 2 higher, 1 lower, and all "churred", if you can interpret that term!
It appeared uniformly blue-gray on the sides and above, with clear (pale) yellow below on chest and belly. Color layout pattern undernear was sharply defined and designed as on the black phoebe or slate-colored junco male. Head and throat to upper chest also blue gray in case that wasn't clear from previous words. Murray wrote notes on her hearing of the call. A quick look through Stotz mexican birdbook showed absolutely nothing close to this bird. I saw it no more when I climbed up.
2. While well up the south slope for the "1" bird, and after seeing 5-striped sps., I watched this flycatcher, Empidonax-size. No calls were given. Dark gray brown in coloration, with back and rump bright and rich pearl-gray. Rich buff undernear, as on the buff-breasted flycatcher. Sides were yellowish. Perched on ocotillo and in mesquite and yucca.
3. Finally, back at the river crossing by the rest area, a chat-sized bird on the open ground with sparrows. Flew to thicket, then across the stream to a willow, upstream and back across to sparse shrubs in a sandy area above our creek crossing. Yellow breast and ?? belly. Dark pointed bill, white line over eye, grayish brown above, with large, light (white) patches on the shoulder areas of both wings. Not a ybchat.

Now, is that a challenge for your thoughts? I'll be anxious to know your thoughts of these, other than the obvious impression Murray and I had sunstroke, too much tequilla, or ?????

I've already recieved back one roll of film, and they lost a slide I took out the bedroom window. All other shots, except the coral bells at the spring (1st shot on a roll) turned out. Nice to see the desert all ~~over~~ over again!

Thank you two so much for your wonderful hospitality.

As ever,

June 10-12, 1975 -St. Paul Island, continued:
Common Snipe

Wandering Tattler, 1 on 6/11, 6/12

Greater Yellowlegs - 2, 6/11

Rock Sandpiper -at least 6 pairs, distract you with calls, chips, and V'd wings

Baird Sandpiper - Erolia bairdii - full breeding plumage, slightly smaller than N. Phalarope it was with on small lake mudflat, 6/12. near Polovina Hill. Bill 1", black, fairly straight. Legs black or very dark. Crown rich or bright rusty or chestnut of a lighter shade than yesterday's Rufous-necked Sp. White eye-line plain. Rufousish back with much pattern scales on wings and back. Tail with slight white area on side near body, not like longspur, and chest and throat uniform gray brown with sharp line across below like a Pectoral. Lightly streaked vertically.

Rufous-necked Sandpiper- Erolia ruficollis - at small snow-melt pond on Cone Hill western side of island. 6/11. Flushed and went north toward Lincoln Bight.

Red Phalaropes in full plumage quite a sight. 4 and 3 seen at most one time.

Northern Phalarope - 6 on 6/10, 1 on 6/11, 7 on Polovina Lake, each on own puddle, spinning. 1 nest at Weatherstation Lake with 3 eggs.

Parasitic Jaeger - brilliant plumaged with 2-3" dark breast band chasing Kittiwakes and Slaty-backed Gulls at Weatherstation lake, 6/12. K's flew away with "pained" call after hit. PJ tried flock of flying K's, which scattered.

Glaucous Gull 6/10

Glaucous-winged Gull common

Slaty-backed Gull - Larus schistisagus - three of these on Weatherstation Lake with 15 Black-legged and 2 Red-legged Kittiwakes. All were dipping wings and heads and "preening", with the three at the rear edge of the flock as it worked slowly forward. Three showed particularly well as they flushed to move ahead a bit, but always staying a bit aloof from K's. Mantle about shade of Western Gull, s but not black as Greater. Wings stuck further back than K's and the wing breadth was distinctive. Wide ~~wide~~ white trailing edge to wing. Reddish legs. 6/12/75

Red-legged Kittiwakes rare - Rissa brevirostris - Lifer

Black-legged Kittiwakes common to abundant

Black-headed Gull 6/11 near village

Common Murre - plain and ringed eye forms

Thick-billed Murre - Uria lomvia - NA Lister.

Parakeet Auklet - Cyclorhynchus psittacula - very common at seacliffs and open water.

Crested Auklet - Aethia cristatella - Uncommon on St. Paul, compared to others.

Least Auklet - Aethia pusilla - very common, individually and flocks everywhere. Noisy.

Nest on cliffs and in jumbled piles of rocks along the coast.

Horned Puffin - 2, 6/11, maybe 12 prs altogether.

Tufted Puffin - 5 on 6/11, 10-15, 20-25 other days

Snowy Owl - each of two trips to Webster Lake in NE corner of St. Paul.

Bank Swallow - 2 on 6/11, S of Ridge Hill, 3 by 6/11 eve at hotel.

Water Pipits

Gray-crowned Rosy Finch - seem to have become the starling and house sparrow of St. Paul.

Everywhere in hilly and sea cliff areas and on and in human habitation. Nests checked on shelves in bldgs held 5 eggs, 4 (later 5) eggs, 5, 5, 5 and 4 eggs.

Lapland Longspur - 12's singing and floating downward. Some calls like a light

W. Meadowlark. Reminds me of skylark in habits.

June 13-17, 1975, St. Lawrence Island, village of Gambell, Northwest Cape, Troutman Lake, west coast below Troutman, marshes SE of Lake, and mountain and flats from Sevuokuk Mtn. SE to overlooking Dovelavik Bay and Meruwtu Point. Weather great first p.m. with mtns of Siberia clear. Foggy, windy, cold and rainy most of rest of trip, with one huge storm depositing whole new gravel beach at NW Cape at least 6 feet above water and 25-30' wide. Stayed 4 nites w/ Timmy Slwooko, Box 81.

Arctic Loons not uncommon passing NW Cape (NWC, hereafter)

Red-throated Loons not quite as common, perhaps 2 or 3 per watching hour

Fulmar - surprisingly common for such a bird of the high seas. about 5 p.m. on 6/14 there were 30 at one time while storm sea was present. Same time 6/15 only 6-8.

Almost all were in browned-white phase, with some pure white. Fulmaris glacialis.

Pelagic Cormorants in small groups of 6-8 or less, about as abundant as

Red-faced Cormorants

Black Brant - 2 on SE marshes below Troutman Lake (TL and SEM, hereafter)

*Emperor Goose - Phalacrocorax canadensis - Lifer. - flights of 9, 11 and 2, all from down-island and all heading NNW off NWC toward Siberia - none turned by time out of sight.

Pintails - not over 4 or 5 at a time, most in SEM. Almost all males.

Greater Scaup - on 6/14, 1 M with fem. Tufted Duck

*Tufted Duck - Aythya fuligula - NA Lister - 6/14 F with male G.Scaup. 6/16 M&F together. F was exceptionally rich colored, uniformly, with little light as on F scaup.

Bufflehead - 2

Old Squaw - dozens of pairs on SEM and flying by NWC and off west shore.

Harlequin Ducks - small flocks offshore - not common, but more abundant by 6/16.

*Steller's Eider - Polysticta stelleri - what was to me a major goal as the most beautiful eider and rare, turned out to be most common bird passing NWC. 7 flew by 6/14 a.m. and I saw 6M and 3 dark ruddy, uniform, females. Darker than Robbins book. On the water by small ice floes, the males had tails up like Ruddy Ducks. Pr. sandbar, Barrel Lake King Eiders were next most common, with up to 40 passing NWC in short period. These and others going back and forth, even with Eskimos shooting at birds along the beach.

Common Eider - not so common here, where Kings outnumbered them 8 to 1. 6 eve of 6/13.

*Spectacled Eider - Somateria fischeri - life lister. 6/14 1F with 5 glaucous gulls at noontime. 1 M and 1F later. 2 males by at 8 p.m. with 3 more Ms passing NWC and returning even later in the evening. 6/15 630a.m. count K-45, St-6, C-3-Sp-0

White-winged Scoter - flights into NWC directly from N 9-10a.m. BDST and others seen farther east coming in from the N too. 6/16.

Red-breasted Mergansers - 10 or so per hour/ back or fro at NWC

Sandhill Crane - 6/16 - mtn. tundra SE of Sevuokuk Mt. 5 seen.

Golden Plover - a couple of pairs - heard whistling for first time. Tame, near nest.

Surfbird - 6/14 - SEM - 2

Ruddy Turnstone - pairs on mtn. slopes, showy, noisy, defensive. Watched 2 chasing Jaegers.

Black Turnstone - 3 on 6/15 - 3 in snow ditch on gravel flats chasing each other E of village.

Western Sandpipers - many pairs on tundra and about SEM

Rufous-necked Sandpiper - one not full headed, but necked in rufous in village boneyard.

Coloration nothing like one at St. Paul. Pale uniform rufous on lower cheek, throat and side of neck, partly back. Otherwise a standard western-style wings&back.

Others present were Ed. McKnight, Terry Hall, Ben King, Joel Abramson, Joe Taylor

Will Russel, Roger Foxhall, etc. All also saw Rosefinch (see later).

*Temminck's Stint - Calidris temminckii - life lister - very small 5" & built low to ground. buffy line thru eye, white chin-throat with breast band, legs light. Bill short? Sides of tail white.

Rock Sandpiper - not common here in tundra as on St. Paul. Replaced by 12's and even 100's of Dunlin, especially on the hi tundra SE of Mt. Sevuokuk 6/16.

Ruff - 1st full plumaged male I've seen in NA. Was basically black, in SEM. 6/14.

Long-billed Dowitcher - 3 pr. on tundra slopes to E of SEM. full breed plum. Harsh scolding.

*Polynesian Tattler - Heterosceus brevipes - life lister. Ben King of Bonanza tours found this one on 6/13 - at 1130 p.m. BerDST we went to NE corner of Troutman Lake and watched this bird at extremely close range. Bill 1 1/2", outer 1/2 dark, inner lighter fleshy. Line thru bill - eye - and behind eye. Dark eye, faint ring thin.

Throat and upper 1/2 breast mottled and sides below wings barred lightly 1/2 way to bottom. Rump and back uniform color. Underparts white including undertail coverts.

White outer tail feathers. Fairly short-legged. See

June 13-17, 1975, St. Lawrence Island, Gambell and vicinity - continued

Red Phalaropes - almost always in pairs, riding the sea or in the marshes. Few pairs in high mtn. tundra SE of Mt. Sevuokuk, 6/16.

Northern Phalarope - few pair over tundra and marshes. None on sea.

Pomarine Jaegers chased by Ruddy Turnstones. Not too common here.

Parasitic Jaeger - only few seen, but more than Pomarine.

Long-tailed Jaeger - the common one, tho all 3 have been seen at one time in one area.

On hi tundra SE of mtn. a pair came within 10-15 feet of me. Flew to rock on the tundra, and as I approached they mated for 20-40 seconds. Many heard giving long, drawn-out scream call as they sailed over the mtn. ridge above the marsh and flats.

Glaucous Gull - 6/14 on - not common

Glaucous-winged Gulls - not common

Black-legged Kittiwakes - 6/15 - 35 on TL, and during stay - dozens off NWC. Many /& Sabine. immatures with different two spots and dark areas. Quite similar to Black-headed immes./

Sabine Gull - adult in full plumage back and forth on p.m. of stormy sea. Beating and circling. Weak, jerky flyer compared to kittiwakes.

Arctic Tern - not common, but everywhere seen on lowlands and along coastal waters.

Common Murre - 100's by NWC each day

Thick-billed Murre - 1000's by NWC each day.

Pigeon Guillemot - only seemed to pass NWC in pairs, perhaps only 3 or 4 per hour watching.

Black-Guillemot - Cephus grylle - NA lister - 6/15 630a.m. a black paired with a pigeon, passed NWC 2x. No black on white area. Larger clear space showing and with almost white underwing area, compared to pigeon. A good contrasting poing. Few others seen later.

Ancient Murrelet - 1 floated by NWC 6/17 a.m.

Parrakeet Auklets - 100's

Crested Auklets - 1000's and 10,000's - perched $\frac{1}{2}$ way up Mt. N cliff.

Least Auklets - 1000's and 10,000's

Horned Puffins - 6/13-20 in eve. 6/16 perched hi on Sevuokuk N cliffs.

Tufted Puffins - 6/13-6 in eve.

C. Raven - 6/16 pair over mtn. heard earlier day, too.

Dusky Thrush - Turdus naumanni - 6/145 a.m. in boneyard by mtn 1 mi. E of village. Two views of this brown thrush with dark head and clear whitish line thru or over eye, Showed rufous on wings as it hopped about and on back or rump. Bird always moving away so could not see the breast and underparts. Was not a NA thrush. Life lister. 11:30.

Gray-cheeked Thrush - saw at about same time as Dusky Thrush in same area. This bird was present for still another look upon revisit about 3 p.m. No one else saw Dusky, but this OI

Wheatear - Oenanthe oenanthe - NA lister. One north of Sevuokuk mtn. on 6/16 in p.m.

White Wagtail - Motacilla alba - NA lister. 6/13 and daily about Gambell village.

Water Pipits - few

Red-throated Pipit - Anthus cervinus - located by Ben King of Bonanza. We went and found them calling along lower mountain slopes E of TL. Breeding song in air?

Pechora Pipit - Anthus gustavi - Life lister - Bonanza located it. Never heard song, but saw wit Ben King, Joe Taylor, et al. Two prominent white lines down back clue of it.

Indian Tree Pipit - Anthus hodgsoni - unverified NA lister - studied carefully on slope near McKay Bunting rocks. Plumage fits, and different call than another of 3 other sp.

Common or Scarlet Rosefinch - Carpodacus erythrinus - Life Lister. In village boneyard 6/14 9:30 p.m. female. 5" & gray brown. Slight wing bars (2) Tail richer on proximal $\frac{1}{2}$.

Ground feeder, seldom flew. Bill smallish. Slightly dark cap. Breast lightly barred.

Gray-crowned Rosy Finches - rare

Hoary Redpolls

Common Redpolls

Tree Sparrows

Lapland Longspurs abundant in village and on tundra and in marshes

Snow Buntings - perhaps 35-40 seen different places.

McKays Bunting - Plectrophenax hyperboreus - Life lister. 6/15 p.m. Went to mtn. slope E of village where most island birders had seen these day before. I was in snowstorm. They flew from rock area high on slope 100's of feet to beach at water's edge.

Poly. Tattler footnote - late nite of 6/13, while studying it, we watched it stand or wade in shallow stream from NE marsh into TL. It successfully caught many fish and took them on to sand bank, sometimes placing them in little pools of water. The next a.m., 6/14 I checked out the dead fish, which Tattler didn't eat any of and found 1-spined stickleback w/ red tail, 2" long. Also 2" many-spined, black above, white under and wide oter eyes.

*Smew - Mergus albellus - 1 male - Lifer - MA listers - finally located at a distance on south Easton. It was stretching head and neck, wings out, and flying, and moving rapidly to the east. While we moved over a half mile, it disappeared from its prior location. We spent half-hour over south and west sides of 2 ponds, and relocated it in open water area S of Green End road. In close company with Flicker C. Merganser, just staying in one small area in mid-pond. Did boat wings, turn slowly around so all sides, rear and head-on views were obtained thru the scope (15x-45x) (Green End road & Miantinoni St.) Watched it for half hour as it swam across pond, to east, diving only occasionally until reaching east side near brush, and then started diving actively 1-3 or more times per minute, afterwards, swimming and diving rapidly as it crossed to W side of pond, and there was diving with a dozen common mergansers, mostly drakes. Was an adult male, with black bill and black area at front of head that made the whole front black. Side marks very thin. Black back between wings showed little. Crest outline not distinctive.

Difficult to see this near-adult on the piles of ice floating on banks of Merrimack R. at port boat launch. Was in open water 6-10 feet. I went out on ice to flush it, and it flew less than 50 yards to land again. The rows of black scottings on the wings were almost absent, and were smaller than illustrations on the trailing edge feather tips, too. Black bill and black area on face gave the front half of head a black look, like the Smew at Newport.

Dr. Fred G. Evenden, Executive Director
The Wildlife Society
7101 Wisconsin Avenue, N.W. Suite 611
Washington, D. C. 20014

Dear Fred:

Thanks for your letter regarding birds you saw in the Aspen area. I taught ecology at an NSF Institute in Aspen one summer so am pretty well acquainted with birds of the area. Both Pine Grosbeaks and Red Crossbills are relatively common permanent residents around there. We saw a number of the grosbeaks with young up toward Independence Pass.

The redpoll sighting seems very unlikely to me unless they were "crips" or escapees that didn't make it back north. We get Common Redpolls in the dead of winter irregularly but last winter was a real redpoll year. We had them on all three of the Christmas counts I participated in. I presume you also saw Pine Siskins and Cassin's Finches in town. They were quite abundant nesters the summer I lived in Aspen.

We have an official Colorado Field Ornithologist's records committee that reviews rare sightings. If you'd like them to evaluate your redpoll sighting I would suggest you write to the Chairman, Mr. Jack Reddall, 4450 S. Alton Ln., Englewood, Colorado 80110, for report forms they provide. I, unfortunately, don't have any at present.

The Nashville, Tennessee and Mourning Warblers are so far not on Colorado's list of normally occurring summer warblers. The latest spring migrants I find recorded for this side of the mountains are (1) Nashville 5/24/64 and (2) Tennessee 6/5/71. Although, as you mentioned, MacGillivray's are common nesters near Aspen, I know of no authenticated records of Mourning Warblers although I heard rumors one of the bird banders caught one this spring; the record report of which is being reviewed by the CFO records committee. William A. Davis' "Birds in Western Colorado" (CFO Monograph No. 1, 1969, p. 31) lists three records from Gunnison for the Tennessee and considers the Nashville a "rare migrant; all records are in the fall". Realize, we have few keen birdwatchers on the western slope. The CFO committee, incidentally, hasn't accepted

Justice Douglass's report of a Pileated Woodpecker in the Maroon Bells south of Aspen but I notice the Preliminary "Colorado Breeding Data for Select Bird Species, May 1976" prepared by Dr. W. D. Gaul of the Colorado Division of Wildlife lists Pileated Woodpecker as a small "b" possibly breeding in two "lati-longs" in northwest Colorado although the records committee hasn't accepted the species as officially on the Colorado list.

Sincerely,

Ronald A. Ryder

Dear Ron:

I returned this past week from a brief stay at a convention in Snowmass at Aspen, Colorado and must confess to having observed several birds there that certainly have no business there--maybe they didn't read the bird book distribution records!

I'd appreciate very much knowing your knowledge on recently kept records for any of the following:

Pine Grosbeaks - There seemed to be several pairs of these at the higher elevations of 9,500 feet to 11,300 where I was hiking.

Red Crossbills - There were pairs of these around the village as well as farther up the slopes towards the 9,000 foot level.

Redpoll - I observed one pair of birds but only had a good look at one of them and it obviously was a redpoll but with an extreme amount of white around the head, neck and red-capped area as well as much white on the sides of the body and wings. It looked very much more like a hoary than a common redpoll but of course hoarys aren't shown on any maps much south of the Canadian border. It was in the conifers at about 10,500 feet on June 22 as were the other birds mentioned.

On June 21 along a creek not far from the village, I observed in addition to the normal expected warblers - a Nashville, a Tennessee and a Mourning Warbler. The common warblers were the MacGillivray and Audubons in that particular creek bottom habitat.

I'll look forward to having your comments and experiences for that part of the territory, Ron. I also hope you are having a very fine summer.

Most sincerely,

Fred G. Evenden

Dear Sir:

I returned this morn'g from a brief stay at a convention in Denver at Aspen, Colorado and must confess to having observed several birds that I am certain have no business there--namely they didn't feed the right food distribution material.

I'd appreciate very much having your assistance in identifying these birds for any of the following:

Five Grosbeaks - There seemed to be several pairs of these at the highest elevations of 8,500 feet to 11,000 where I was staying.

Red Crossbills - There were pairs of these around the village as well as far up the slopes towards the 9,000 foot level.

Redpolls - I observed one pair of these but only saw a single bird at one of the other two locations. It was a Redpoll but with an extreme amount of white around the head, neck and red-capped even as well as much white on the sides of the body and wings. It looked very much like a Redpoll but a common Redpoll. But of course I can't show on any map what I saw of the Redpolls. It was in the country at about 11,000 feet on June 12 as were the other birds mentioned.

One June 11 along a creek not far from the village I observed in addition to the usual mountain warblers - a Redpoll, a Townsend and a House Wren. The common warblers were the MacGillivray and Ashdown in that particular creek bottom habitat.

I'll look forward to having your comments and suggestions for that part of the territory, Son. I also hope you are having a very fine summer.

Very respectfully,

Yours S. P. Jackson
Executive Director

There were 111 species recorded by us over the weekend, in what was obviously a peak of migration, 1-2 or more weeks later than normal, based on late-April, early May tring this year. It wasn't just scattered individuals, but numbers of many species.

Unforgettable highlight has to be standing in one spot and seeing a dozen or more male Scarlet Tanagers, a few Indigo Buntings and 1 or 2 Rose-breasted Grosbeaks in a few trees close by, with 5 or more ITs in one small tree. Later we had half ITs in one locust tree, along with warbler assortment, 5 ITs. Locusts were a prime attractant on 5/15, and already much defoliation of their leaves noted. Blue-gray Tanager Nest atop almost horiz. 1" branch, 40-45' up in oak tree at Perry.

Birds

Of Chincoteague NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGE

The topography of Chincoteague Refuge consists of wide sandy beach backed by a series of low dunes which fall away to extensive salt marshes bordering Chincoteague Bay. Some parts of the refuge, particularly the southern end, also contain extensive areas of pine and oak interspersed with ponds and potholes. Several shallow fresh-water impoundments were developed to make the refuge more attractive to waterfowl. Thousands of brant, geese, and ducks winter on the refuge. Shorebirds are an outstanding feature of the migration periods.

Large numbers of herons and egrets can usually be found on the impoundments from mid-spring to late fall.

June 9-13, 1978

Most birds are migratory therefore their seasonal occurrence is coded as follows:

+ 6/11 - Colinus virginianus L. $6 \times 16 = 96$
0 6/13/16 - Passer domesticus L. $6 \times 16 = 96$
+ 9 = 104

† = Nesting has occurred on the refuge

† = Nesting has occurred on the refuge

156 - 1 - 1

The 262 species listed here are in accordance with the fifth, (1959) A.O.U. Check List as amended.

BRIGANTINE NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGE, located in New Jersey, totals over 20,000 acres of coastal salt meadows, upland brush and woodlands, and open bays and channels.

Bird observation opportunities reach a peak during the spring and fall migrations. Wildlife trails, observation towers, and an information center are among the facilities available to the public.

This list contains 270 species that have been identified on Brigantine since its establishment. Names and order of listing are in accord with the Fifth A.O.U. check-list, as amended

Most birds are migratory, therefore their seasonal occurrence is coded as follows:

SEASON

s - Spring March-May
S - Summer June-August
F - Fall September-November
W - Winter December-February
† = Nesting has occurred on the refuge

RELATIVE ABUNDANCE

- abundant a species which is very numerous.
- common certain to be seen or heard in suitable habitat.
- uncommon present, but not certain to be seen.
- occasional seen only a few times during a season.
- rare seen at intervals of 2 to 5 years.

This list includes the names of 398 species of birds that have been reported for Big Bend National Park and vicinity. Thirty-seven of these are in a "hypothetical" list: those that have not been authenticated by a specimen, photograph, a sighting by more than one individual or party, or have not been reported during the last twenty years. Common names used are from the American Ornithologists' Union Check-list of North American Birds, 5th edition, 1957, as currently supplemented.

c = common u = uncommon s = sporadic
f = fairly common r = rare acc. = accidental

WATER AREAS as Rio Grande and tributaries, and isolated ponds.

R = RIPARIAN AREAS as river floodplain, cottonwood groves, mesquite thickets, and deciduous vegetation up into Chisos Mountains. Examples are Rio Grande Village, Cottonwood Campground, Hot Springs, Santa Elena Canyon picnic area, Dugout, lower Window Trail, and Old Ranch.

D = SHRUB DESERT habitat from lowlands into the Chisos Mountains. Examples are Rio Grande Village, Panther Junction, Castolon, Daguer Flat, and along River Road.

G = GRASSLANDS from the lowlands into the high Chisos Mountains. Examples are Panther Junction vicinity, Green Gulch, and Window Trail.

M = MOUNTAIN WOODLANDS of pinyon, junipers, and oaks. Examples are upper Green Gulch, Lost Mine Trail, and South Rim Trail.

B = BOOT CANYON and similar highland areas, generally above 6,000 feet. If no locality symbol is shown the birds can be expected throughout.

Summer = breeding birds including permanent residents and those which arrive as early as March and remain as late as October.

After Breeding = species that are not known to nest within the park but arrive in spring, summer, or fall and may remain through December.

Winter = permanent residents and those which may arrive as early as September, remain all winter, and may stay as late as April.

Migrant = those species that pass through the park only in spring and/or fall from March to May and August to November.

Please report any observations of rare, unlisted or hypothetical birds, or those found at times other than designated, to the Chief Park Naturalist, Big Bend National Park, Texas 79834.
